LOCAL WORKERS ARE INDIGNANT

Rushville People Withdraw Financial and Personal Aid From Salvation Army's Local Corps.

CAPTAIN SAID TO BE CAUSE

Recent Criticism of City by I. C.
Popp is Straw That Breaks
Camel's Back.

The criticism which Capt. I. C. Popp of the local corps of the Salvation Army made on Rushville last week when he made public in his report that in his two months' work here he has found "more sin, unbelievers and poverty-stricken people according to its size than any other town in the State," has resulted, in a large measure, in several prominent and wealthy people withdrawing their support from the local corps.

Some support was withdrawn shortly after Capt. Popp came here to take charge of the local corps over two months ago, as he showed some disposition to look with disdain on efforts of local charity workers and did not seek their aid. In other words, according to prominent workers who have taken an interest in the Salvation Army, he wanted to take the management of the whole affair in his own hands, and would have it appear that he did not solicit the assistance of people who have been a great help to the Salvation Army in the past.

Local charity workers who have been a great aid to the Army are highly indignant at the action of the new captain. His first step which started the breach between the Army and the charity workers was the expression of his desire to run the Sunday school which is conducted at the Salvation Army church in South Pearl street every Sunday afternoon. The Sunday school there for several years has been known as the Mission school and has been conducted by local charity workers in conjunction with the Salvation Army.

When he made the request that the

The command rang out sharp and clear in the practically deserted lunch room. The waiter, aroused from his midnight slumber rushed to the kitchen to inform the cook of the order.

The man at the counter was not an out-of-the-ordinary man—just a plain type of Rushville citizen, perfectly sane in every respect, and not given to expressing his nervous impulses in his actions. It is said that an automobile running close to ninety miles an hour, came within a foot of him, whirled his hat into the gutter, besplattered mud over his newest suit, and brought forth no great exclamation from the unfortunate

DONALD M'GREGOR DEAD

Father of Former School Superintendent Expires at New Castle.

Donald McGregor, aged 83 years, died yesterday at his home at 144 South Ninth street in New Castle. He was the father of Prof. A. G. McGregor, formerly superintendent of schools of Rushville, now a professor in the University of Kentucky at Lexington. The remains will be taken to Sheridan, Ind., where the funeral will be held at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Anna Evans.

EXPIRES AFTER 19 YEARS ILLNESS

Mrs. Effie Stevens Succumbs at Her Home in Carthage This Morning of Asthma.

HUSBAND KILLED 12 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Effie Stevens, age forty-two, died at her home in Carthage this morning at six-thirty o'clock of asthma. Mrs. Stevens has been a patient sufferer with inflammatory rheumatism for nineteen years and had been an invalid most of that time. Last night about ten-thirty o'clock, she was seized suddenly with an attack of asthma and her death resulted this morning.

Mrs. Stevens had been a life-long resident of Carthage, being born and reared there. She was a highly respected woman and leaves a host of friends to mourn her departure. Her husband was killed twelve years ago in a railway accident at Knights-town.

Mrs. Stevens is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jesse Ruby of Carthage, who was married here only last week, and Miss Mary Stevens, who resides at home. Three brothers also survive. The funeral services will be held at the Carthage Christian church at ten o'clock tomorrow morning, conducted by the Rev. Carl Berry, who was formerly a pastor of that church, but who is now studying in Butler College. The interment will take place in Walnut Ridge cemetery west of Carthage.

WOULD PREVENT EPIDEMIC HERE

Public School Officials Have Children
Examined With View of Forestalling Diphtheria Cases.

HEALTH BOARD WILL ASSIST

Teachers of City Will Visit Schools in Several Cities of State
Friday.

The schools of the city will be closed Friday as that day will be visiting day for the teachers. The majority of the teachers will go to Muncie to inspect the public school system as a number of other teachers from eastern and northern Indiana will be there for the same purpose.

Other teachers in the local schools plan to visit schools at Richmond and Connersville while a few will go to Shelbyville and Bloomington. This is an annual custom which was established a few years ago and which is sanctioned by the State superintendent of public instruction.

The Rushville school officials are taking every precaution to prevent the appearance of an epidemic of diphtheria which prevails in a number of other cities over the State. When a child in the school complains of a sore throat it is sent home and its parents are requested to seek medical attention for the child. In case the parents fail to comply with the request the city board of health has agreed to furnish physicians to make the proper examinations and see if there is any symptoms of diphtheria. If there is any danger of the child carrying the disease to others it will not be allowed to continue in school until it is well.

The local school officials intend to comply with the medical inspection of school law and at the same time attempt to assist the pupils by the method which they began to practice this week. All of the children in the city schools were examined by their teachers. Notices were sent this week to parents of the pupils whose eyesight and hearing were found to be defective. The parents were urged by the school officials to take their children to a physician at once for an examination as it is thought that even greater defects than those found by the teachers might be discovered.

If the parents do not act in accordance with the wishes of the school officials the city board of health has promised its assistance in the matter. Should the parents fail to act the children who are believed to be affected will be examined and some course recommended in case their hearing and eyesight are found to be impaired.

This afternoon at 2:50 o'clock Alexander M. Loehwitzky, a Russian exile, who is here to lecture tonight under the auspices of the Epworth League of the M. E. church, spoke to the high school on the subject, "Graft in Russia." His address was very instructive and was highly pleasing.

The surviving relatives are four daughters, Mrs. Edith Jackson, Mrs. Addie Chestnut, Mrs. Martha Caldwell of Indianapolis and Mrs. Carl Vickery. Funeral services will be held at the Friends church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial at the Lewisville cemetery.

CITY COUNCIL IN BRIEF SESSION

Meets to Hear Remonstrators on Cement Walk Improvement in Buena Vista Avenue.

PASS ORIGINAL RESOLUTION

Sidewalks Will be Constructed Either by City or the Two Property Owners.

The city council met in special session last evening to hear remonstrators on the building of cement walks in Buena Vista avenue. Last night was the date set by the council to hear any remonstrators against the improvement. All the councilmen were present with the exception of Parsons and Moore.

It will be remembered that the cement walks in Buena Vista avenue were put in under private contract with the exception of two property owners, who refused to put in walks. In order to have the street uniform, the council passed a preliminary resolution endorsing the improvement and under the law it was necessary to set a date to hear remonstrators. The question involved about 40 feet of walk on both sides of the street. The property affected is owned by Ed Muire and Mrs. Mary E. Cline.

Neither of the two property owners appeared before the council and the preliminary resolution was adopted as originally read. The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids as provided by law.

After passing the resolution the clerk read a petition from both property owners asking for permission to put in the walks. This was granted, providing the walks were in by November 7. The passing of the resolution ordering the improvement was done by the council so that if Mrs. Cline or Mr. Muire do not put in the walk, then the city can go ahead and do so as the next step would be the advertising of bids. Both property owners will probably put in the walks under private contract as the cost would be reduced. If the city were to put in the walk the property owners would have to pay the advertising, thus increasing the expense. In any event the walks will be constructed, either by the city or the two property owners.

The council meeting was a brief one and as no other business came up they adjourned.

SUSTAINS SEVERE INJURY

Manilla Railroad Agent's Foot Mashed in Coupling.

Scott Wilkinson, agent for the Pennsylvania lines at Manilla sustained a severely mashed foot Monday evening while delivering orders to the engineer on a southbound freight. Mr. Wilkinson had climbed upon the engine and was standing on the floor which covers the coupling between the engine and the coal tender when the engine started up, causing the cover to raise up and catch Mr. Wilkinson's foot. So heavy was the covering that it took five men to raise it off of his toes. Dr. Barnum dressed the injured members, but he stated that he did not think it would be necessary to amputate the foot.

Barber is Wedded.

J. M. Wise, a barber of St. Paul, yesterday was united in marriage to Miss Rosa Lindner of Indianapolis. The wedding took place at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in the Capital City. Though Mr. Wise was the victim of a bad accident a few days ago, injuries received at the time were not destined to delay Dan Cupid. The groom as a result of a friendly scuffle broke an arm last week, but this did not deter him from going ahead with the nuptial contract.

WILL NOT HAVE TO ENTER POOR FARM

Report From Guardian of George Mc-Creary Shows he is Not in Need.

IS WELL FIXED FINANCIALLY

That there are two sides to the George McCreary case is evident from the report of his guardian, George W. Bird, which appeared yesterday in the Greensburg papers. McCreary desires to enter the Marion Soldiers' Home because he claims he has no home. Mr. Bird says the old soldier could come to his home in the winter as he has done heretofore. The report of Mr. Bird filed with the clerk of Decatur county says that McCreary is of unsound mind and is growing very irritable and really does not know what he wants. The guardian has $1128.53 belonging to his ward, which is invested in bonds and a small sum is in a trust company drawing 3 per cent interest. It is thought the local G. A. R. did not know all the circumstances of the case or they would not have exerted such an effort in the old man's behalf. As for the old soldier having to enter the poor house, nothing could be more absurd.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Mrs. Edward Fisher, age 76, died rather suddenly at her home in Milroy today of heart disease. She realized that she was dying as she sat in a chair at her home. Mrs. Fisher is survived by her husband and son near New Castle.

ASPIRANT FOR PUBLICITY GAINED BY HALLEY'S COMET APPEARS

"1911-G" Which Promises to Rival
Recent Sky Tramp May be Seen at Dawn.

LOCAL PEOPLE GAZE AT IT

"1911-G" is among us.

It arrived nobody seems to know when, and will leave at a time equally as indefinite as its arrival. "1911-G" is a comet, for the benefit of those who do not study astronomy. It is much brighter than the famous Halley comet ever hoped to be and it promises to excel that once famous star.

"1911-G" slipped in all unannounced by advance press agents and unheralded by the astronomers. It came into the universe like a little lamb and it promises to create much more stir than Halley's protege. Its unassuming manner has already won it a long list of admirers.

GIANTS RALLY IN LAST OF NINTH

New York Wins Fifth Game of the World's Series at Polo Grounds in Sensational Finish.

THE FINAL SCORE IS 4 TO 3

Giants' Victory Today Means Another Game and Possibly More
Must be Played.

Contrary to expectations the New York Giants came back in the latter part of the fifth of the world's series games at the Polo grounds in New York this afternoon and won by the score of four to three in a ten inning struggle.

Philadelphia led off in the scoring with three runs in the third inning. New York did not negotiate a score until the seventh when one runner got all the way round. In the ninth inning rally New York scored twice and tied it up. Philadelphia failed to mark in the first of the tenth and New York was able to score in the last of the tenth and win.

It did not appear that New York would be much force in what was expected to be the closing game of this season's world's series. Up until the last of the ninth it was apparent that the Athletics had everything their own way when New York rallied and put across two runs.

Philadelphia has won three games and it was generally expected that the Quakers would win again today and take the world's series. Four out of seven games are all that are necessary. Today's game was the second which New York has won.

Combs started the game for Philadelphia and was relieved by Plank. Lapp did the catching. "Rube" Marquard, the former Indianapolis pitcher, started for the Giants and was relieved by Crandal. Myers was the catcher.

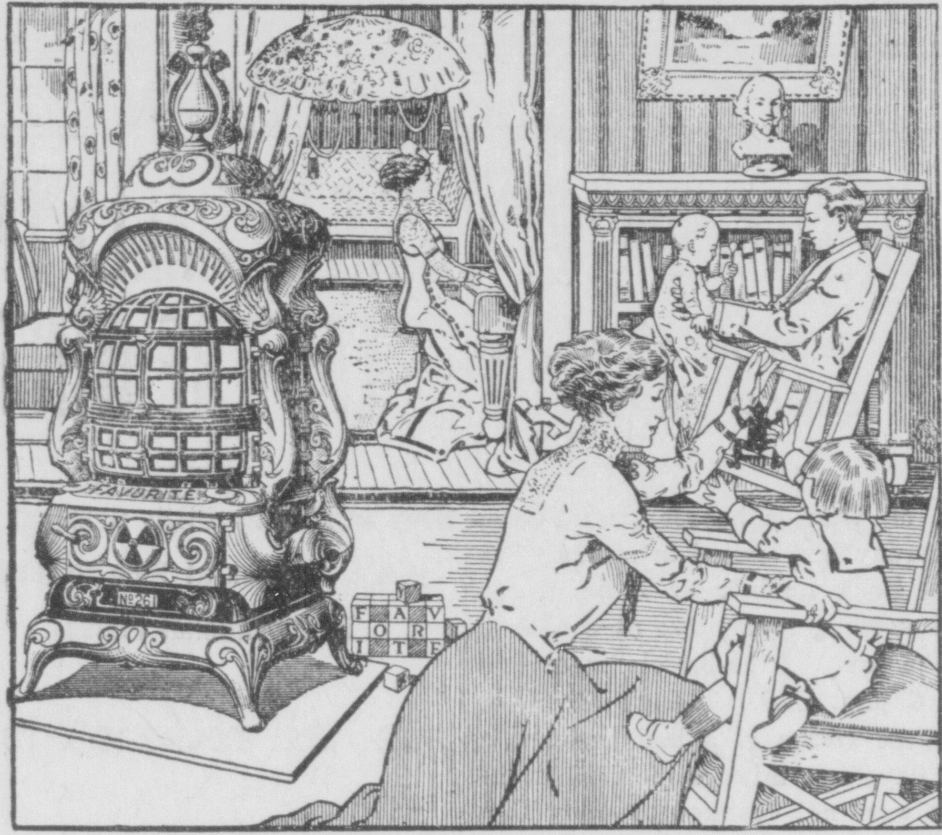

The local interest in the world's series has been keener this year than ever before. Large crowds of men have awaited the score here every afternoon and the Daily Republican office force has been busy each afternoon of the game answering anxious questioners concerning the score. Phil . . . 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—3 7 1
N. Y. . . 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 1—4 9 2

The thing which served to popularize "1911-G" most is the time which it appears in the heavens. It may be seen in the eastern sky just at dawn when the sun is beginning to peep up over the horizon. Early risers are especially grateful as they will have the extreme pleasure of gazing at the comet every morning. This was a diversion which was not possible with them when Halley's renowned comet was putting on a nightly performance and none but a night owl could enjoy the scene.

"1911-G" is a perfectly well regulated and natural comet as it has a tail. The announcement is that it has a two-degree tail whatever that is. Its tail is not said to be as long as Halley's although it is more pronounced.

"1911-G" has attracted some attention in Rushville already. Some people are planning to get up real early and view it while others are looking forward to staying up all night so they will not miss it

A circular entitled "The Students' Health Creed," is being distributed among the children, who are requested to sign it and paste it in their readers. It might be called a pledge, and is as follows:

I believe my body and good health are sacred. If I am sick it will very probably be because I have violated some one or more of nature's laws of health.

I will study nature's laws of health and will obey them for my own sake.

I will not suck my fingers, or pick my nose or wipe my nose on my hand or sleeve, for these practices are unsanitary and very impolite.

I will not wet my fingers in my mouth when turning the leaves of my books.

I will not put pencils in my mouth or wet them with my lips.

I will not put pins or money in my mouth.

I will not buy and use chewing gum nor buy and eat cheap candies.

I will only use my mouth for eating good plain food, drinking pure water and milk, for saying good and kind words.

I will always chew my food thoroughly and never drink whiskey or wine.

I will strive against the habit of "clearing my throat," because it is nearly always unnecessary, and may be disagreeable to others.

I will not cough or sneeze without turning my face, and holding a piece of paper or handkerchief before my mouth. Polite people never cough in public if they can prevent it.

I will keep my face, hands and finger nails as clean as possible.

I will not spit on the floors, stairways or sidewalks, and will try not to spit at all; ladies and gentlemen do not spit.

I will wash my mouth every morning on getting up and at night on going to bed, and will use a toothbrush if I can get one.

I will be clean in body, clean in mind and avoid all habits that may give offense to others.

I will get all the fresh air I can and will open wide my bedroom windows when I go to bed.

You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its greatest reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by All Dealers.

LAST OF THE FAMOUS "FIGHTING M'COOKS" DEAD.

John J., His Father, Eight Brothers and Six Cousins Enlisted in '62.

Colonel John James McCook, prominent lawyer and last of the "fighting McCooks" of the tribe of Dan, died in Sea Bright, N. J.

With his eight brothers, his father, Major Daniel McCook, and six cousins, sons of John McCook, he enlisted in 1862, leaving Kenyon college in his freshman year, followed Grant through the western campaign and later in the Army of the Potomac, where he served as aid to General Crittenden, was severely wounded at Shady Grove, Va., in May, 1864, and was mustered out as lieutenant colonel of volunteers in November of that year.

Returning to Kenyon college, he was graduated in 1866 and from Harvard Law school in 1869. He received the degree of A. M. from Kenyon and Princeton and LL. D. from the University of Kansas and Lafayette college.

In 1876 Colonel McCook married Miss Janetta Alexander, only daughter of Henry L. Alexander, by whom he had five daughters and one son. Of his surviving children his eldest daughter, Susan, is the wife of Peter Augustus Jay, American ambassador to Japan; his second daughter, Caroline, married J. J. Morgan, nephew of J. P. Morgan, and resides in England.

Colonel McCook was the senior member of the law firm of Alexander & Green of New York, director in the Equitable Life Assurance society for many years, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, the International Banking corporation, Wells Fargo & Co. and other corporations. He organized the Manhattan elevated railway system, had been receiver of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and the St. Louis and San Francisco railroads; organized the Mercantile Trust company and International Banking corporation and was counsel of the American Surety company.

President McKinley offered him the posts of secretary of war, navy and interior. He and his brother Alexander attended the coronation of the present czar as official representatives of the United States. In 1906 the emperor of Japan gave him the Order of the Rising Sun.

HERE FROM INDIA TO STUDY.

Dr. Khedkar Will Also Correct Our Idea of Vedic Philosophy.

Dr. S. V. Khedkar, fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, medical officer of the province of Kolhapur, British India, and private physician to the maharajah, an up to date Indian prince, arrived in this country recently to study advances in medical science. He was graduated at the University of Edinburgh in 1900.

Incidentally Dr. Khedkar hopes to check erroneous impressions of the Vedanta system of philosophy which have been fostered by self seeking charlatans. News of the activity of these "swamis" and others, he said, had given great pain to the head of the Vedic system in India, the Shankaracharya Matha, or hierarchy of the ancient monastery at Kolhapur. He bears a commission to explain its teachings in this country. Dr. Khedkar said:

"The Vedic teaching is based on the oldest known writings in India, and for centuries its study was rigorously confined to the east. The Shankaracharya monastery is one of the four centers of the teaching in Hindustan. It was founded in the ninth century and is a sort of Vedic university."

"A common error fostered by self appointed teachers of a false Vedanta philosophy is that it is opposed to Christianity. The truth of the matter is that a great deal of Vedic philosophy may be found in the Scriptures. In fact, certain passages can be explained only in the light of Vedic philosophy."

HOKE SMITH'S PLAN.

Will Resign as Governor Between Nov. 1 and 15.

Governor Hoke Smith will resign as governor of Georgia between Nov. 1 and 15 and be ready to assume his duties as United States senator when congress convenes. The governor will give thirty days' notice of the date of his resignation to enable the state executive committee to arrange for a primary for the naming of his successor.

The primary probably will be held about the middle of December, and the election is expected to be set by John M. Slaton, who will be acting governor, for the first week in January.

The candidates for the governorship already are in the field, and prohibition will be one of the vital issues. Judge R. E. Russell of Jackson is seeking the nomination on a straight local option platform. The other candidate is J. Pope Brown of Pulaski, former state treasurer.

First Woman Diplomat.

The first woman ever to enter the diplomatic service of any country in the world is Miss Clotilde Luisi, who has been appointed by the president of Uruguay as an attaché of the Uruguayan legation at Brussels, Belgium. Miss Luisi recently received a university degree of doctor of laws.

Rooster Defied the Court.

Daily Newspaper Is Factor In Development Of Community

The influence of the country press upon public sentiment can well be ascertained in this way—that the character of a community is largely determined by the character of the press, writes E. S. Wilson, editor of the Ohio State Journal.

The impression the press makes is what it makes itself. Visiting, as it does, the many households with its news of local events and happenings that touch closely the people's lives, it forms an association that is itself an influence.

Its very misison creates an interest, and where this mission is faithfully realized, and the newspaper is kindly and sincere, it leaves an impression that contributes to the thinking and opinions of the people whom it serves. It becomes, in fact, a part of their lives, and modifies in a greater or less extent their aspirations and their conduct. This cannot be otherwise, for what a person reads sifts into his character and directs his purpose.

And what a person reads most regularly and persistently is his newspaper, and especially his local newspaper. Day after day, or week after week, it is thrown upon his porch, until it becomes an institution of the family, quite as necessary as his material supplies. He may not agree with all it professes but even in what he disagrees, he is set to thinking and this is itself an influence by no means to be disparaged.

But after all, what is regarded as the influence of a newspaper—the power to create opinion and to stimulate action—depends upon five things:

First—The candor of the editor. He must be plain, frank, out-spoken, for only through such qualities does he impress the reader that he lives the truth and wants that asserted platform. The other candidate is J. Pope Brown of Pulaski, former state treasurer.

Second—The optimism of the editor. He must be hopeful, cheerful, kindly. That kindles faith in him and attracts the people to what he says. It makes his paper cheerful, and therefore a welcome visitor, which bespeaks a friend who enters the house. This is one of the cornerstones of a pauper's influence, and if ignored, the paper makes slight, if any impression.

Third—The editor must be a man of principle, a man of faith, under the sway of some grand truth that he calls upon to determine every conviction he expresses. He must be positive, not in the stubborn sense, but in the sense of being sincere and conscientious. This does not make one impetuous, but modest rather, and modestly in the long run wins. Every man, and especially an editor, should have a dominating principle to control his life and his opinion.

Fourth—The editor must be a clean man in mind, body and habit. This quality must appear in his paper or it will have no influence for good. People may laugh sometimes at low, vile allusions, but they don't like them; they don't like such a paper to come into their family. The opinions of such an editor do not go far or last long.

Fifth—The editor must stand firmly for the moralities and what inspire and sustain them—for religion, for education, for temperance, for civic duty, for public and private honesty, and never for an instant budge before any assault made upon them.

There are other requirements that I might mention, but these are sufficient to cover the subject upon which I am asked to write—the influence of the country press. Where the press has illustrated, in its mission, the qualities I have suggested its influence has been powerful. And in a large measure this has been so, and where the influence has been meager and meanliness, it has been through an indifference to these high ideals.

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Town Development

Just at this time, when Rushville people are interested in boosting and booming their city, special interest attaches to a series of articles by Henry Oyen in "The World's Work" on "The Awakening of the Cities," a phenomenon which Mr. Oyen terms "a movement as big as the map of the United States." In opening his article Mr. Oyen says:

"The awakening of American cities is not a real boom, although there has been an unprecedented growth in city wealth and population during the last ten years. The awakening marks a new era in the spirit of the cities. They have ceased to be indifferent about everything but size. They have come to a new sense of responsibility. They want to be and are going to be better as well as bigger."

The writer points out that this movement "is one of the real forces for permanent progress" and has "stirred the cities of all classes and in all sections." He says that it has lifted Boston out of a condition of somnolent self-satisfaction and it has moved Kansas City to activity. Chicago, the great, sprawling colossus, has lifted its head and harkened to the call of the new spirit, and Rochester, in the face of strong opposition, has forced itself into the forefront of cities of which the country may be proud.

"In Michigan I saw how Grand Rapids has suddenly stepped from the commonplace to a new, high level. In Iowa I saw why Des Moines had sprung into national prominence. Memphis, Tenn., testifies that the movement is reaching down through the south and Cleveland is showing how to make an ugly downtown district beautiful."

The writer gives the substance of what he heard in almost every city visited as follows:

"You see, a few years ago we were in pretty bad shape here. We were growing as we should. Our streets were nothing to boast of, we didn't have the best of schools, our parks and play grounds were hardly a credit to us, there were few prospects of any immediate improvement in any of these things and, speaking generally, there was nothing much here to make the average man feel hopeful and glad that he happened to live in this particular city. We appreciate all this now, but then we were satisfied, we felt that we were going along about as well as the next. Well a few years ago we woke up. How did it happen? Oh, we just woke up and saw that we were dead. The world had moved and we hadn't. When we had this clearly established in our minds we began to start things on a new plane. It was hard sledding at first, because it was difficult to get the average citizen to acknowledge the need of an awakening and like pulling teeth to get him to see that it was his duty to take part in the movement. But after a while we got everybody waked up and after that nothing could stop the work of making this town into a modern city, a good place for all classes to live and work in."

Continuing, Mr. Oyen says: "This is a new spirit, entirely new. It is as if the cities had looked at themselves with sincere, critical eyes; had noted their several and varied failings and had said: 'We are big but we are ugly. We are rich but we are bad in spots. We have wonderful populations but too many of our peoples life is far from pleasant because of conditions that we permit to exist. We lack many of the things that go to make cities great in beauty, in education and all of the fine developments of civilization. We are, generally speaking, miserably equipped to care for the populations that inevitably will be ours in the future. This is a bad condition, a condition unworthy of American cities. In the past we have been content to be as we are. We must be so no longer. The time has arrived when we must begin to make ourselves better in all things.'"

He points out the decline of Boston as an example and how inactivity and lack of public spirit on the part of citizens will permit the decadence of their cities. At the same time he shows how the people of Boston finally awakened to the seriousness of the situation and by energetic co-operation have made the city known for civic activity. Memphis, he points out, "was stricken with a somewhat similar idea" and by hard word and persistent co-operation has lifted itself from the slough into the brightening field of commercial activity and better civic progress.

Elmira, N. Y., he says, "like many other long established cities of 30,000 or 40,000 population, was dying." It awoke, looked itself over, decided that deterioration would continue unless defects were remedied and finally 500 business men joined together to make Elmira the city that it should be. It soon began to show the effect. The river was cleaned, the river front is being improved, streets in the business district have become well lighted and now Elmira, instead of going down hill, is progressing upward.

Other noted examples, such as those of Des Moines, Grand Rapids and Cleveland, are given to show what can be done where business men and other citizens will join in a co-operative movement for civic uplift and for the general betterment of their cities. Honest city government, economic and business-like management of city streets, better sanitary arrangements and less sickness, growth in real estate value, increase in business done by merchants and other business men and many other things are the result of these forward movements as proven by what has been done in so many cities.

Rushville Getting English? Everybody Wearing a Cap

There are more caps being worn in not think of paying more than fifty cents for a cap a few years ago, but only are the boys and young men it is different now."

While the proprietor of the store elderly men may be seen on the streets in large numbers daily wearing caps.

Caps have become very popular headgear and the demand for them is growing every day. For the last eighteen months the demand has been greater than ever before. The increase in the demand began about two years ago, but did not become very noticeable until a year ago last spring. Caps have become among the best sellers of men's furnishings and large and expensive stocks are being carried by the leading men's furnishing houses of Rushville.

"The demand for caps in this store is three times what it was two years ago and is becoming greater every week," said the proprietor of one of the largest men's furnishing stores Tuesday afternoon. Continuing, he said: "I have been in this business for a number of years and have always been compelled to carry over a portion of my cap stock every year until last year. I never knew the demand for caps to be so great. I have such confidence in the demand continuing that I have purchased the largest stock of caps ever shipped to Rushville. Not only have I bought those made in this country, but have imported a large supply. More caps will be worn this fall and winter than hat manufacturers will like, but they are what the people want and will be worn. I have a large sum of money invested in them and have no fears but what the stock will be sold out and another ordered before spring. Imported soft hats are in great demand also.

"We are selling more $1.50 and $2 caps at this time than we did all priced caps last year and formerly there were only fifty cent caps to be found on the market. People would

He said he would wear the "thing," and directed that the clerk lay his old headgear, which had been worn but a few weeks, away and he would call for it later.

For the last year English styles in men's wearing apparel have prevailed and at this time at their height. The fall showing of men's furnishings by the leading stores throughout the country are largely English styles. The foreign styles are the leading lines in all men's wearing apparel, with the exception of shoes.

Englishmen are the greatest wearers of caps in the world. They pay as much attention to their caps as they do hats. For this reason the caps are in the same demand that the English styles are.

One of Rushville's big stores is in receipt of a shipment of caps made from remnants of steamer rugs, the Scotch weavers prevailing in all shapes, which are something entirely new for Rushville. They are meeting a ready sale.

Imported hats are also in demand.

Never before were there so many imported hats in Rushville as there are today. The sale of these hats has been far better than the dealers expected and it is safe to say all the leading stores of the city will carry a complete line of the imported goods next summer. It is now too late for many to get a supply of the winter grade.

English wools in soft hats manufactured in England, French velours made in Australia and Kilkenny, a rough English wool hat are among the best sellers. A brushed silk Austrian made hat is becoming very popular also.

Effective Use of English Is Big Factor In Any Work

The following bulletin has been issued to teachers and parents by the State department of public instruction and has been received by county Superintendent C. M. George:

A proper appreciation of the value of good English is a necessary prerequisite for its proper use. When we consider that our principal medium for communicating thought is through oral and written language, we must realize that this thought will be effective, only, as the words and phrases expressing it are suitable and well chosen.

In every walk of life—agricultural, mercantile, or professional—the effective use of language is a great factor in successful work. The business man persuades, the lawyer argues, the minister exhorts, effectively, only as he makes use of language that expresses his thought and feeling. Therefore, from a commercial standpoint, the use of effective language is most important.

Again, the mentality of the listener is greatly affected by the language of the speaker. His understanding and imaginative powers are influenced in their operation by the language he hears, and are clear or blurred, distinct or confused, according to the effectiveness with which the language used expresses the thought of the speaker. Then, too, the culture of an individual is more frequently gaged by his language than by his dress and manners.

There is a mistaken idea prevalent that good language is flowery language, and must be filled with figures of speech. Good language is language that is effective. It is clear, concise, correct English and may be made attractive by figures of speech if such forms add to the effectiveness.

The use of language begins early in the life of the child. He is taught the names of familiar objects, of common activities, and begins to group his words as he hears them used by members of the household. His language and habits of speech are obtained through the ear, and when these forms become fixed, it is difficult, indeed, often almost impossible, to change them. Even after children grow older and can read books and study the forms used by the best thinkers and writers, they still follow the usage of those with whom they are associated.

All teachers are familiar with the futile attempts made, to influence children in the correct use of English through a study of the rules of technical grammar. Pupils may know these rules perfectly, may be able to pass a most satisfactory examination on the subject matter of the grammar and continue to make atrocious errors, because the language heard in daily conversation does not conform to these rules and regulations.

The first essential then, to good English among children, is the proper use of the mother tongue by parents and teachers. All people are, by nature, imitators, but especially is this true of children. They imitate the dress, the manners and particularly the speech of others, and since their confidence in teachers and parents is unlimited, they will, without hesitation, adopt the forms freely used by these older people. Therefore, there is a line of improvement to be undertaken by the parents and teachers to better their English that they may afford approved models for their small imitators.

"Guard your speech well," should be the watchword among the elders if they expect the children to use good language. And guarding speech means, also, guarding thought and feeling—for the thought must be worth while or the careful use of language will avail little. Words are, indeed, empty, if they are not inspired by worthy thoughts and feelings.

We, then, urge parents, in the home, to discuss with their children events of significance in the state, national, and world happenings as found in newspapers, magazines, and other periodicals; to become familiar with the interests and activities of their children, both in and outside of the school room, and hear them, in their childish enthusiasm, give recitals of their doings. In this way

PIMPLES

And All Humiliating Skin Eruptions Are Banished by the New Sulphur Treatment.

Oh, the anguish of those ugly unsightly, humiliating pimples, blotches, and other skin troubles! Why tolerate them? Don't you know that the one sure eradicator of these blemishes is SULFOSOL (sulphur in solution)? Sulphur has for ages been recognized by the medical profession as the one great specific for blood impurities, but the trouble was that sulphur couldn't be assimilated in the blood.

SULFOSOL is just soluble sulphur—made possible through the recent discovery of a secret of Nature by a great chemist.

SULFOSOL (soluble sulphur) is Nature's gift to that large portion of humanity afflicted with Pimples, Eczema, and all forms of blood taints and skin diseases. Get SULFOSOL of your nearest druggist or write to Sulfolco Co., 72 Trinity Place, New York, for free book on Blood and Skin Diseases and the successful use of SULFOSOL in their treatment.

they can guard in conversation, their own speech and that of the children, and also accomplish a far more important thing i. e., a real acquaintanceship with the young people in the home and a confidence from them, that can never be overcome.

The improvement must be conscious selfimprovement along rational and logical lines. The mature mind can see the value of good language, can comprehend the rules governing good usage and consciously apply them.

Many simple books are written setting forth the principles governing good usage in the English language, and these in the household will furnish excellent material for the guidance of the elders. And the same kind of training will help, greatly, the teacher, in making his speech a model for imitation.

In all this, however, the form is valuable only, as it makes the thought clear and forcible.

The mind, then, in all language study, should be kept primarily on the thought, with an endeavor, always, to use such words and groupings of words as will best express his thought.

The vocabulary can be increased daily by the additions of one or more new words. It is really a great pleasure to add a new untried word to your vocabulary and feel that it is your own, as to solve a difficult and important problem in mathematics.

Let the simple rules of technical grammar—those governing, especially, the argument of parts in a sentence—be mastered and applied.

Read some good books like Palmer's on "Self-Cultivation in English."

Remember that the suggestions in this bulletin are not of methods to be applied in the school room, but of those to be applied by parents and teachers to themselves.

WOMEN WOES

Rushville Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Sick kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and much suffering is saved. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. William Merrill, 332 W. 4th street, Rushville, Ind., says: "For some time I suffered from a weak and painful back and I was also subject to headaches. I had but little energy and the simplest of my household duties was a burden. My husband finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills for me at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store and since taking them, my condition has been better in every way. I am grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills for their good work."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Doc Wiley favors woman suffrage. He no doubt believes that the hand that makes the pie should guide the State.

After some of these long rains it dawns on one's mind that blue sky is a much nicer color than anything you can find at the dry goods store.

If President Taft does not get home pretty soon, it will be cool for the office seekers who are sleeping out nights on the White house lawn.

If Rev. C. V. T. Richeson killed Avis Linnell, it all goes to show that unmarried ministers should keep away from the women and should at once get wives.

Some of our exchanges demand an extra session of Congress to begin Nov. 1, but we are asking whether the Congressmen can't be locked up so that they can get back to Washington at the usual time.

Mr. Taft was fed on buffalo steak in South Dakota, and if Mrs. Taft would only get up these novelties for him at home, perhaps he would be content to settle down in the White house.

The British taxpayers are discouraged because a war ship that cost $930,000 twenty years ago has just been sold for $18,000, but that's about the percentage of shrinkage in five years on an automobile.

Clarence Stanley is to walk from Boston to San Francisco to illustrate the principles of the Boy Scout movement. But we have several hundred thousand Man Scouts in this country who have learned that the freight car transportation is easier.

The Richmond Item throws several fits and becomes highly indignant because it is said that Finly Gray, congressman from this district, is given an opportunity to make good by the petition of Shelby county Democrats to land a federal building for Shelbyville. The Item sees no good in federal buildings and dubs them "sink holes of waste." Has Richmond a federal building, did the city try to get one or what is the matter anyway?

The New Castle Times, another one of those "Independent" newspapers, sends out the good word that Henry county is solid for Finly Gray. It opines further that if James E. Watson were nominated by the Republicans he would be defeated by the silent vote of Wayne and Henry counties. What's this, the Times ventures to make such an assertion? Surely the Times does not intend to join the Wayne county bombastic terrifiers and attempt to disrupt good old Henry.

It appears that the newspapers of the northern end of the Sixth district, Democratic, independent and one alleged Republican, are attempting to give the idea prominence and make it appear that Finly Gray is perfectly satisfactory to every Democrat in the Sixth district. So far Shelby county Democracy has been silent on that pertinent topic.

It was thought the straw vote nuisance which abounds previous to campaigns would be confined to Chicago and a few other large newspapers and muckraking magazines but it is apparent that one Indiana newspaper has succumbed to the bug.

The Richmond Palladium yesterday carried a front page editorial in which it urged the voters of Wayne county to bring pressure to bear on the Republican central committee of the county to accord Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin a welcome under the auspices of the Republican organization when he speaks there this fall. The Palladium argues that Senator LaFollette has as much right to be welcomed by the county committee as has President Taft since they will both seek the Republican nomination for President. As a fair example of inconsistency the Palladium carries a story in the next column on the front page which purports that Indiana is hopelessly lost to Taft and the Republican party. And yet the editor of the Palladium in the article admits that he is a Republican.

The "school hack" has received another plexus blow. If the jolt does not prove a knockout, it will be because rural residents do not care to abide by the judgment of Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State Board of Health. Dr. Hurty condemns the "hack" as the greatest menace to the health of children, and it is without reference to its cleanness or the likelihood of accidents to the occupants that he so desires.

It is because children who are hauled to and from school in the abominations that have been designated "school hacks" are deprived of the fresh air and exercise that would be theirs if they walked both directions. In cases where the distance to school is less than three miles. Dr. Hurty thinks the hike would prove very beneficial, notwithstanding the cold or rough roads. He says it often happens that this is the only opportunity the children have for invigorating exercise.

In reply to a letter of inquiry from a Syracuse health officer, who reported the complaints of parents because the township did not furnish a hack to haul their children two and one-half miles to school and return. Dr. Hurty said:

I wish I could abolish every school hack in the state and make all the children walk, where the distance is not too long. Even though the roads were rough and the weather cold I would have them walk. For the most part children live in unventilated homes, sleep in unventilated rooms, are taught in unventilated school rooms, and the time they spend on the road to and from school is about their only chance for exercise. The oxygen these children get on the road is necessary to overcome the poisons they get in their unventilated homes and school rooms.

Moreover, most of the school children of today are great eaters of pickles and cheap candies, by which they take into their bodies a great deal of poisonous material. The fresh air they breathe when walking to and from school is the best thing in the world to help them rid themselves of these poisons.

Tell those complaining patrons that they do not know how well off their children are.

In other words, Dr. Hurty holds that the "hack" in the road develops the "hack" in the second room—that cough which first sounds the alarm in the development of the great white plague.

BROACHES EXTENSION

Tri Kappa Publication Mentions Editorially Installation of Chapters.

The current issue of the Cross Keys, the official publication of the Tri Kappa fraternity, of which there is a chapter in this city, broaches the subject of sorority extension. The Cross Keys says editorially that the sorority has decided that it does not want to be national, but there is some disposition to extend the influence of the organization beyond the limits of the State of Indiana. Petitions for chapters have come from other States but have never been given favorable action. There is now a feeling among some of the members that it might be well to allow chapters in one or two neighboring States and thus make Tri Kappa a Tri-State affair. Others of the local chapter believe it would not be wise to make the sorority national.

Cascarets Cleanse Liver and Bowels

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing inside and will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

LARGE PEAR SHIPMENT

Growers Send Three Car Loads to Kankakee Commission House.

Dr. J. W. Allison and his brother Frank M. Allison of St. Paul, have sold to a commission firm at Kankakee, Ill., one thousand bushels of Ketter pears and they will be shipped this week. It will require three cars to transport the fruit. All of the pears were grown on each of the two men's farms and it has required the services of ten men for several days to pick them for shipment. The last of the pears were packed Saturday evening and yesterday the work of loading them into the cars was started. The pears were abundant this season, and on account of the little demand for them, Dr. Allison found a market at Kankakee, and disposed of the whole lot.

FOLA LAFOLLETTE

Daughter of Wisconsin Senator
Who Will Be Married Sunday.

Washington, Oct. 25.—A marriage license has been issued for the wedding of George Middlebrook of New York to Miss Fola L. LaFollette of Washington, D. C. The applicant for the license stated that the ceremony would take place at noon Sunday and would be performed by Rev. U. C. B. Pierce, pastor of All Souls church, Unitarian, of which President Taft is a member. The ceremony will be at the home of the bride's father, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, on Wyoming avenue. The couple will live in New York.

BOLD ROBBERS HOLD UP A STATION AGENT

They First Cut Wires to Prevent Alarm.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 25.—Two railroad robbers, masked and armed, held up the night operator at the Indiana Harbor station of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern road, took $300 from the station safe and escaped.

The work of the men was thorough. About 9:50 o'clock a train drew out of the station for Chicago. From the rear platform two men quietly stepped off. One went to the place where the telephone wires connected with the building and the other to the telegraph wire junction. The wires were jerked from their places. Bert Cunningham, the night operator, was inside at the key. Suddenly his wires were "dead." He began manipulating, in an effort to discover the trouble. Then one of the robbers suddenly appeared, told him the wire was dead and covered him with a revolver, while the other went through the safe.

He Blames the Hotel.

New York, Oct. 25.—Supreme Court Justice James W. Houghton of Saratoga has sued the Hotel Majestic to recover $1,500 for jewelry belonging to his wife that was stolen while Justice Houghton was sitting in the appellate division of the supreme court in this department. The plaintiff sues on the common law liability of an innkeeper and because the hotel company was negligent in having a lock on the door that could be forced.

To Cut Out Middlemen.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—The board of public safety and a committee representing the city council has approved of Mayor Shank's plans for reducing the cost of living by making it possible for the farmer to sell direct to the consumer without interference. An arrangement will be made so that the retailers and wholesalers will be separated at the city market place.

Naval Experts Prepare For Coming of the Forty Thousand Ton Warship.

As soon as some other nation begins to build warships with fourteen inch guns, the caliber of the rifles which will compose the main battery of the newest designed Dreadnoughts of the American navy, the United States will seriously consider the sixteen inch gun for battleships. The largest gun on foreign vessels today is the 13.5 inch, adopted by Great Britain and Russia. The problem of a sixteen inch gun is already being worked out in connection with imaginary 35,000 and 40,000 ton battleships, so as to be prepared to take an advanced step whenever foreign competition warrants it. For rifles of that caliber a warship must necessarily have a displacement of at least 31,000 tons to resist the terrific recoil. These plans demonstrate, it is said, how materially is the evolution in naval construction and ordnance in one country controlled by the progress of others.

With the size and strength of warships growing from year to year in this worldwide endeavor to excel naval experts are beginning to wonder when and where the climax will be reached. With the 26,000 and 27,000 ton ships building the navy department is planning to make the displacement of the two battleships authorized by the last naval act 28,500 tons. That is certainly not the end, for it is believed that the next Dreadnoughts will be at least 30,000 tons.

FALL PLANTING
THE ORCHARD

By M. W. RICHARDS, Horticultural Department,
Purdue Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

Fall is, perhaps, the best time for the general farmer to set his orchard. At this season of the year farm work is generally slacken than in the spring and the work can thus be given more care and attention.

The trees should be ordered early. If you wait until late in the season you apt to get cull stock. Order from some good, reliable firm that is located somewhere near home. If the stock is then unsatisfactory the nurseryman is close enough to be dealt with. But only trees of standard varieties. Let the other man or the experiment stations do the experimenting. For a home orchard, two or three trees of about five varieties of each sort of fruit will be found to be a great plenty. This will make an orchard of from an acre to an acre and one half in size and will produce more than enough for a family of average size.

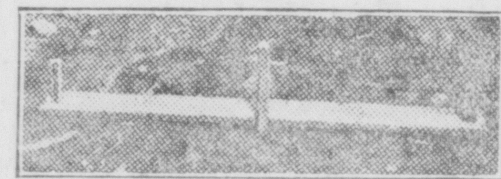

Fig. 1—Planting board. By means of this board the exact location of the trees can be determined after the holes are dug.

Before the trees arrive the ground should be well fitted. Plow the orchard area well and then harrow it and leave the soil in as good condition as if you were going to sow wheat. Just as soon as the trees arrive they should be taken from the boxes and have their roots puddled. This is done by making a thin mixture of clay and water and then plunging the root systems of the trees into it. Puddling is done to prevent too rapid drying out of the roots.

For the farm orchard the square system of planting will be found to be very satisfactory. The trees are set at the corners of squares 35 or 40 feet on a side. On a small area the trees can be set with a garden line. On a small area the trees can be set with a garden line. Stretch the line tight and then place a stake every forty feet. Now move the line over forty feet, stretch again and set the stakes as before. Continue this operation until there are as many stakes located as there are trees to be planted. Each stake thus repre-

Proper Feeding.

Avoid that which contains a large proportion of fat. It is lean meat which gives the best results. It is safe to say that cut bone and meal make a cheaper ration than grain because less is required to satisfy the hens, and also because in many places those substances cost less per pound than grain. If the hens have a grass plot they will need but one good meal a day. If they are not now laying the probability is that they are too fat, which happens frequently when grain is fed liberally.

Driving Bees From Grapes.

It is said that mignonette makes honey equal to the best white clover and some take advantage of this fact where bees are likely to injure the grapes. A row of mignonette is put in the ground near the grapes, and they will bloom at the same time as the grapes. The bees will neglect the grapes for the flower which they prefer.

No Excuse for Surplus Males.

Don't carry a lot of surplus male birds. As soon as the hatching season is over sell them, if they are pure-breds, or eat them if they are not. Unmated hens lay as well as mated ones, and infertile eggs do not spoil in summer as soon as they get warmed up to 90 degrees, as fertile ones do.

Remedy for Bowel Trouble.

Bowel trouble is common in the chill days of spring and fall, when change of temperature is hard to prevent in the house. Ten drops of spirits of camphor in drinking water daily is a good remedy for such ailment.

Cultivation Forestalls Drought.

Do not neglect to cultivate the sweet potatoes. Keep up the cultivation and maintain the mulch. If this is properly done they will stand a terrific drought and develop potatoes when the late summer rains come.

sents the exact location of the trees which will stand forty feet each way. In order to set the tree in the exact place occupied by the stake, a simple device has been designed known as the planting board (Fig. 1). This is a piece of board about six feet long with a notch in the middle and a hole in each end. The board is laid on the ground with the stake fitting in the central notch. Two other stakes are now placed in the end notches and driven in place. The planting board can now be lifted from the marker stake, the stake removed and the hole dug. When the hole is dug the planting board is replaced over the end stakes and the central notch now rests over the hole in the same place as the original marker stake. The tree is then held in the central notch (Fig. 2) and the soil placed about its roots. Care should be taken to cut off all mangled and broken roots and to also shorten in all extra long ones. The soil should be thoroughly worked around the roots and no air spaces left in contact with them. When the tree is planted the board is removed and the tree now occupies the exact position of the marker stake. By using the planting board on each tree, the rows of trees can be kept as straight as was the original line of marker stakes.

No top pruning should be done to fall planted trees until the following spring when the tops should be cut back severely. (Fig. 3) By careful work a fall planted orchard can be brought through the winter in good shape and at least two weeks gained in growth over spring planted trees. Plant carefully and then care for the trees if a satisfactory harvest is expected.

Watch Poults Carefully.

From the time of hatching the little poults must be carefully watched, as disease among them must be nipped at the very start. Should a little poult's wings droop he should at once be isolated and given two grains of bromide of potassium in milk, and he should be kept isolated until wholly well. For a cold in the head this breeder advocates the spraying of the nose with kerosene.

Light Feeds for the Poults.

After the young turkeys are sixteen to twenty days old begin to feed lightly on cracked corn, wheat, etc., and occasionally baked cornmeal or Johnny cake, which is simply cornmeal mixed with either sweet skim milk or water and a very little salt, and thoroughly baked. This is moistened slightly before feeding.

Danger of Overfeeding.

Remember there is the same danger of feeding too much meat feeds and green bone that there is in overfeeding of corn or any other feed. Best results are obtained by feeding sparingly at first and never feeding any more than one-fifth as much of both of these foods as grain given.

Good Laying Ducks.

Indian Runner ducks bear the same relation to the duck family as the Leghorns or Hamburgs do to the poultry family and one drake to seven or eight ducks is the proper mating.

Severe Pruning for Tree.

It is impossible to transplant a tree without losing from one-half to two-thirds of its feeding roots, hence the trees should receive a severe top pruning.

Gander for Breeding.

The length of time a gander is useful for breeding purpose depends entirely upon the individual fowl. Some ganders are useful for such purposes for eight to ten years and even longer.

ANDREW J. VOLSTEAD.

Minnesota Congressman Who Would Not Attend Taft Meeting.

MIXED ASSEMBLAGE

All Kinds of Politics Confronts Taft in Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Oct. 25.—Representatives of about every type of Republicanism and Democracy in Minnesota were invited to their board by the Elks of Mankato, who gave President Taft a banquet. There was ex-Congressman James A. Tawney, formerly of Cannon's cloven hoof ring in the house of representatives; Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, who progresses in the middle of the road; Senator Knute Nelson, who has so assiduously cultivated an independent near-insurgent reputation in the senate, and Senator Moses Clapp, who drives in the LaFollette wagon. There were Harmon Democrats, Clark Democrats and Wilson Democrats. The president sat fairly in the political middle of this spectrum.

Mr. Taft today is the guest of the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

HATFIELD FEUDISTS'
NOTABLE CONVERSION

"Devil Anse's" Sons Join Father at Mourners' Bench.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 25.—Standing over the biers of their two brothers, Elias and Troy Hatfield, who were shot and killed by an Italian in Fayette county a few days ago, eleven stalwart sons of "Devil Anse" Hatfield, noted feud leader, who recently professed religion, responded to the pleadings of their aged parent, embraced religion and pledged themselves to lead better lives.

When they saw their brothers cold in death and heard the final benedictions pronounced over them sorrow filled the hearts of the surviving brothers and they together went forward and made a public confession of faith in the God of their mother and, more recently, of their father as well. The mother of the eleven converts has long been a member of the church.

"Uncle Dyke" is to baptize the Hatfield boys in the near future. A special day is to be set for the baptism.

IDA LEWIS DEAD

American "Grace Darling" Succumbs to Stroke of Apoplexy.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 25.—The famous keeper of Lime Rock light in the southern end of Newport harbor, Mrs. Ida Lewis Wilson, died shortly after 8 o'clock last evening. Her death was caused by apoplexy, she having been stricken early Saturday morning.

Ida Lewis, as the world knew her, gained prominence by her bravery, she, during her fifty-four years at the light, having rescued in all eighteen persons from drowning, several times risking her own life in the effort to save others.

She was found on Saturday morning by her brother, Rudolph Lewis, who for the last twenty-five years has made his home with his sister at the light. Though every attention was given her, she never regained consciousness.

Gold in Brown County.

Nashville, Ind., Oct. 25.—The gold fever seems to have struck Brown county again. Since the recent continued rains parties have begun washing for the precious metal on Bear creek in Jackson township. John Williamson, during the last month, has washed out over $50 worth of gold.

SAILORS JOIN
REBEL FORCES

Disaffection in Chinese Imperial Ranks Growing.

DUBIOUS OUTLOOK FOR THRONE

With Little or No Money to Pay the Troops, Which Are Not Only Inadequately Armed but Ill-Provisioned, the Chinese Government Is Facing a Constantly Growing Disposition to Desert to the Insurgents.

Pekin, Oct. 25.—Monday night there was continuous firing of skirmishers near Hankow. The insurgents, who adopted bold tactics, engaged the imperialists at many points. The known army is pushing to the southward cautiously, clearing the ground scientifically with artillery as it proceeds. The remainder of the government forces are fighting without regard to order or method. The insurgent cause is strengthening and unless the struggle around Wuchang be speedily and successfully ended a general civil war is inevitable.

Pekin, Oct. 25.—There are rumors that many of Admiral Sa Chen Ping's sailors have joined the insurgents. It is not known where the fleet is now located.

A pessimistic view is taken of the outlook for the government. It is reported that the troops are short of provisions and there is little or no money with which to pay them. Nothing definite is known of the movements of the rebel forces, but all rumors have it that the revolution is spreading and gaining strength. It is said that the Mohammedans of Kansu, who have been in a state of rebellion since August, are likely to join the Republicans. Consular dispatches confirm the reports that the imperialists offered no serious resistance at Kiu Kiang.

General Yin Chang is still organizing his forces at Sen Yang Chow and does not intend to attack until he believes that he is able to win a decisive victory. He has appealed to the government for more artillery, saying that the rebels have 400 more guns and that the imperialists must strengthen that arm of the service before they can advance. He has also demanded money with which to pay the soldiers. The government is responding as well as possible. In the meanwhile Yin Chang's outposts are keeping in touch with the rebels.

STILL IN DOUBT

Result of Arizona's Primary Election Not Yet Definitely Announced.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 25.—The vote was heavy in Arizona's first primary, nominations of state officers and candidates for the United States senate. Returns are not all in, but the result so far as ascertained makes it almost certain that former delegates to congress Marcus A. Smith and Eugene S. Ives, both of Tucson, will be the Democratic nominees for senators, with Henry Ashurst running close against Ives.

The gubernatorial race between G. W. P. Hunt of Globe and Thomas F. Weedon of Phoenix, promises to be close, with a slight advantage in favor of Weedon, while Mulford Winsor, it is believed, will be the Democratic nominee for congress.

The only contest on the Republican state ticket was between E. W. Wells of Prescott and George W. Young of Phoenix for governor. It is believed Wells carried the state by an overwhelming majority. Ralph Cameron, present territorial delegate in congress, and Hoval A. Smith of Bisbee are the Republican senatorial nominees.

Two Italian Officers Slain.

Rome, Oct. 25.—General Caneva, commanding the forces in Tripoli, reports that two officers and four soldiers were killed in the fighting of Monday and that eleven officers and fifteen privates were wounded.

Two Boys and a Gun.

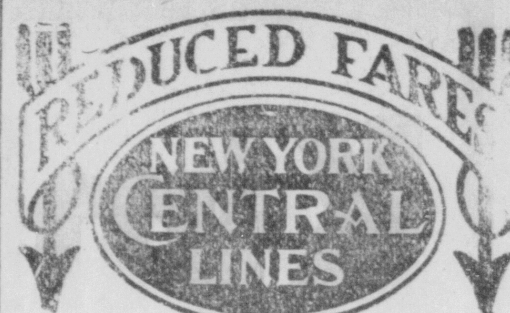

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 25.—Albert Johnson, aged fifteen, was fatally shot accidentally by Miles Sartin, aged thirteen. The boys were hunting rabbits.

JUST READY TO DROP

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired out next morning as when you went to bed, then you need help right away.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicine I ever took."

If the careworn, haggard men and women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderfully strengthening and invigorating body-builder, and we sell it under an iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

STYLES IN HENS.

Indiana Farmer: The good hens that are beginning to look ragged in August and September are the ones to keep. They will lay through the winter, if given half a chance. The ones that put off going to the dress-makers until November are the ones to market. They will not have all the ruffles and tucks adjusted to their notion and be ready to give their minds to the egg business before spring. This is one time when the advance or early styles are the profitable ones, be they harem, hobble or divided.

BRUTAL MURDER AT INDIANAPOLIS

Woman Physician Cruelly Slain In Bed.

NO EVIDENCE OF ROBBERY

Dr. Helene Knabe, Who Had Apartments in a Fashionable Flat, Was the Victim of Foul Murder, the Motive For Which Is Proving a Puzzle to the Police—Negro Janitor Held on Suspicion Was Dismissed.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—The body of Dr. Helene Knabe, thirty-five years old, a well-known practicing physician, was found with her throat cut and the bed clothing disarranged and surrounded by other evidences of a struggle, in her apartments, Flat 2, the Delaware, at the northeast corner of Michigan and Delaware streets, where she lived alone.

Evidence surrounding the case pointed at once to a brutal murder, and after several hours of investigation, Coroner C. O. Durham and detectives detained for examination Jefferson Haynes, negro custodian of the flat. Coroner Durham would make no more definite statement than that suspicion was directed toward Haynes when it was found that a dumb waiter leads directly from the laboratory in the physician's apartment into the basement to the boiler room, which is connected with Haynes's sleeping room in the basement.

There was no evidence of robbery, as the woman's money and jewelry were found in the room undisturbed. The door to her apartment and the windows were locked.

The police released Haynes after a close questioning, being unable to find any evidence to incriminate him.

BOTH DRANK POISON

Suicide Pact Carried Out in a Martinsville Lawyer's Office.

Martinsville, Ind., Oct. 25.—Mrs. Loretta Cox, aged twenty-nine, and William George, aged twenty-one, of Eminence, attempted suicide while in the office of Attorney J. E. Sedwick. George was out on bond pending a new trial in a case in which he is charged with assault and attempt to kill Ed Elliot of Eminence. His brother-in-law, John Fisher, of Stilesville, his bondsman, surrendered George to the officers, refusing to continue on his bond.

George then turned to his attorney, bade him goodbye, took a two-ounce bottle of chloroform from his pocket and swallowed the contents. As he did so Mrs. Cox also swallowed the contents of a small bottle of the poison. They then caressed, saying they loved each other and would die together. Mrs. Cox is John Fisher's sister, and is married, but had separated from her husband. She has five children. John Fisher objected to the attentions paid by George, and he surrendered George because of these objections. The case seems to have been a suicide pact, as Mrs. Cox told the officers they planned to die together if they were separated.

Both became unconscious from the effects of the drug and remained in that condition several hours, but were finally saved by physicians.

South Bend Robbers Boldly Enter Business Office in Day Time.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—The limit in holdups of the many that have been reported to the police during the epidemic of crime that has been rampant in South Bend during the last four weeks took place when a masked man entered the office of the Staples-Hildebrand-Mason company and, pointing a revolver at Miss Grace Bowerman, cashier, forced her to turn over to him $30. A few minutes before an official of the concern had taken the day's receipts to a bank. The man escaped.

COMPELLED TO GET OUT OF A REAR DOOR

Copenhagen Boos Dr. Cook Off the Stage.

Copenhagen, Oct. 25.—When Dr. Cook, the fake pole fender, reached the hall where he was to lecture last night, he found a tremendous crowd outside. He was greeted with hoots and jeers and shouts of "swindler."

There were about 1,500 persons inside the hall, and it did not take the doctor long to learn that he was not wanted. In a very short while he was compelled to get out of a rear door, escorted by the police. There was some handclapping when Cook came on the platform, but before he began Wansen, his former friend, arose and said that Cook was the most impudent swindler that ever happened. Cook tried in vain to convince those present that he thought he had gone to the pole, but there was such an uproar that he had to give up without getting any further north.

GIRL SHOT DOCTOR

West Virginia Young Woman Frenzied by Alleged Betrayal.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 25.—Driven into frenzy by jealousy over her alleged betrayal by Dr. J. E. McDonald, a physician of Logan and former member of the state legislature, Miss Addie Cook, a pretty young stenographer, fired three bullets at the physician, one of the missiles passing through the doctor's right lung, causing a serious wound.

Miss Cook was lodged in jail, as it was at first thought Dr. McDonald's wound would prove fatal, but later she was released on $5,000 bail to await a preliminary hearing. Her only remark as she was released from jail was that she would do it over again if she got the opportunity.

Got Away With Mail Pouch.

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 25.—A United States mail pouch being taken to a train was stolen from a truck at the Burlington station while the transfer man stepped into the express office for another sack. Later a trail of letters was discovered which resulted in the sack being found west of the city. As far as known there was little of value in the pouch.

THE PHILLIES WIN ANOTHER

Giants Again Go Down Before Athletics.

MATTY'S INGLOURIOUS DEFEAT

Star Pitcher For the New York Team Was Not in It at Any Stage of the Game, Connie Mack's Men Apparently Having No Difficulty in Solving the Puzzle Involved in Even His Most Difficult Twisters.

Philadelphia, Oct. 25.—The Athletics not only subdued the Giants by a score of 4 to 2 at Shibe park yesterday afternoon, but also captured their third game in the world's championship series, pounding the delivery of Christy Mathewson in merciless fashion. Another triumph by the Philadelphiaans, therefore, will place them upon the baseball pinnacle, and they will make a desperate fight to achieve that honor at the Polo grounds today.

After one week of idleness the teams hooked up before another crowd that taxed the capacity of the park to the extent of 24,355 paid admissions. A large majority of the spectators went wild over the victory of the Athletics, which was accomplished by plucky uphills playing after the New Yorkers had started off with a lead of two runs. These runs were scored in the first inning when Devore singled. Doyle lined out a triple and Snodgrass boomed a sacrifice fly, solving the Indian Bender with such unexpected success that the Giants and their followers hoped for victory, inasmuch as the mighty Mathewson announced before the game that he was feeling in tip-top condition. He struck out three men in the first inning, and it looked as if he was in shape to mow down Mack's big hitters to inevitable defeat. But soon the Athletics began to lace the ball with tremendous power, some of the hits falling in safe places and others being gathered up in magnificent style by the infielders. But in the fourth inning Mathewson met his Waterloo. If mattered not whether he pitched a straight fast ball, a curve, a drop or a fadeaway, the Athletics hammered him with a viciousness that easily showed their superiority with the bat.

Three men in a row, Frank Baker, Dan Murphy and Harry Davis, lined out corking two-baggers. These crashing drives coupled with an out and a sacrifice fly yielded three runs and proved an advantage that the Giants never overcame. Again, in the fifth inning, the terrible Baker walloped another double and Collins, who had singled a minute before, ran all the way to the plate with the fourth run. Mathewson gamely stuck to his task, which was a hopeless one, until Manager McGraw sent Becker into bat for him in the eighth inning. Then New York's famous pitcher drew on a heavy sweater and took a seat upon the bench to ponder over his downfall.

In the seven innings that he occupied in the box Mathewson was hit ten times, six of the drives being for two bases. Bender, on the other hand, was in superb form after the first inning, and with masterly support to help out of several tight places, he held the New Yorks in check to the end. White pitched the eighth inning for the Giants and managed to wiggle out of a tight fix after some bungling work in the field.

In the ninth inning Merkle opened with a long hit into the crowd back of the right field fence, which yielded two bases, and the Gotham rooters besought the other Giants to get him home. But the big fellow was on third base as Bender turned on full steam and clinched the game. The result hinged upon baseball class, and as the game was played there was no doubt which team excelled in this respect. The Athletics were confident at all stages of the battle and they are predicting a clean-up in Harlem today. Plank will pitch for them and the Giants undoubtedly will use Marquard.

Yesterday's game was the last game in which the players received a share of the money. The gate receipts amounted to $40,957; the players' share, $22,116.78; each club's share, $7,372.26, while the commission's rake-off was $4,095.70. The players' pool resulting from the four games amounts to $127,910.61. The winning team will divide 60 per cent of this sum, while the losers will take the balance.

Aerial Stability Assured.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 25.—Orville Wright broke all records for altitude and stationary flights in a glider when in the teeth of a fifty-two-mile gale he reached a height of 225 feet and remained aloft ten minutes and thirty-four seconds. The machine remained almost stationary and proved to the satisfaction of the Wrights that they have solved the problem of aerial stability.

Long Struggle For Jury.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 25.—But thirteen men of a venire of 125 summoned for the trial of the McNamara brothers, charged with dynamiting the Times building, have survived the inquisition ordeal and remain in the courtroom. "The Store That Satisfies" charity workers step down and out and allow the Salvation Army to have complete charge of the school, the charity workers acquiesced. It was made known to them in a quiet way, so they say, that their assistance and management was not wanted.

This action was followed by several other things which did not please the charity workers in the least and the recent unwarranted criticism of the captain was the straw that broke the camel's back. Local charity workers look upon it as very injurious to the cause of the Salvation Army. They say that Rushville people will not go ahead with their financial and personal aid and have such charges laid directly to their door, especially when they are untrue and wholly fantastical.

The Mission Sunday school was organized and made a success by Rushville men and women who took deep interest in the Salvation Army. One woman who has taken an active interest in charity work in Rushville went to Indianapolis and received a special dispensation from the head at the Indiana division to install a non-denominational Sunday school. In the dispensation the Indiana head urged that the local corp co-operate with the local charity workers to make it a success. And the Sunday school has been a success ever since its beginning and it had been growing in efficiency until the new captain arrived here.

The one thing more than any other, that has caused the local supporters to withdraw their financial and personal aid is the fact that the new captain acted in the manner that he has after the valuable assistance which has been rendered the local corp by Rushville people who have been highly interested in the work of the Army. Were it not for the assistance of many prominent Rushville men and women the Salvation Army would not be in condition it is today and it would not have the prestige that it now has.

Six years ago a subscription paper was carried about the city by a Rushville woman who has been active in charity work all her life and $1,331.65 was subscribed to be used in getting the Salvation Army out of debt and placing it on its feet. In the list of subscriptions appear the names of many of Rushville's most prominent business men and church workers.

With that money the Salvation Army church was paid for and repaired. The use of it was donated to Salvation Army and it shall revert back to the Christian churches of Rushville when the local corp ceases to use it for that purpose. With the money also many other much needed repairs were made. A home for the captain of the corp, and his family, was nicely furnished. It was used as sort of a fund and money was taken from it to pay for lighting and heating the Salvation Army church.

All during the year 1906, in order to get the local corp on a basis where enough money could be obtained to operate it, the local committee assisted in making collections for the upkeep of the church and to pay the salary of the corp and his house rent. The books of the committee show that some weeks the collections amounted to as much as $35 and seldom ever fell below $17.

When division officers were here some few years ago they were taken into the homes of the prominent people of Rushville and many receptions were given in their honor. The local charity workers have always entered into the spirit of the work and have been willing to do anything in their power for the good of the Army. They assisted in making the "Harvest Festival," a project of the Army's, a big success. Some charity workers gave more for the support of the Army than they did for the support of their own church.

Many of the people who have been interested in the Army in the past and who have now withdrawn their financial and personal support, believe that the actions and methods pursued by the new captain will be very disastrous to the local corp. It is feared, they say, that all of the good which has been accomplished by the Army in the past will be undone in a very short time, if some very vital changes are not made.

WILLS and DISTRIBUTION of ESTATES

IN the eagerness with which we strive to acquire and accumulate wealth, we often forget that we can own it only so long as we live, and give little, if any consideration to its ultimate disposal.

It is our object to remind you of the importance and necessity of making satisfactory arrangements for the disposal of your property to take effect at your decease and to advise you of the means by which you may assure yourself of the fulfillment of your wishes and of a quick, accurate and economical administration of your estate.

We are empowered by the laws of the State of Indiana to act as executors of wills and administrators of estates. If desired, we will safely keep your will in our fire proof vault, without charge, subject to your order and present it for probate at your decease, thereby insuring it against loss, destruction and alteration.

Do not delay making your will until some emergency brings the necessity for it forcibly to your minds. Many poor wills result from hasty consideration and preparation. Do not attempt to draw your own will, but have a capable lawyer do it for you.
